INTRODUCTION TO THE COURSE

C Programming has become the most popular programming language in today's world. This is simply because of its wide range of applications, starting from Game Development to Graphical User Interface (GUI) Development, and more.

C Programming is an outstanding programming language for people who have just started programming. This is because of the simple syntax of C it is a high-level language, its syntax is much like that of the English language so that anyone can understand what the software written in C does.

The Certified C Developer | CCD course organized by IEMLabs goes step-by-step into C Development methodologies. After the completion of this course, the students will be able to develop C programs successfully. Most of the software companies all over the world recruit C developers in their workforce. Even Google hires C developers, giving them a good salary package.

FOCUS AREAS

● PORTABILITY   EASY TO EXTEND ●

● MODULARITY   FAST AND EFFICIENT ●

Following completion of the Certified C Developer course, you will have a good fundamental base on how C works and will be able to code complex programming problems in C.

The training sessions will be conducted by our industry experts who have been working in this field for the last 8-10 years. Using this certification credential, students will be able to apply for C Developer and related job roles.

This course adds a lot of momentum to the students careers since IEMLabs provides hands-on training procedures through projects and practical-oriented classes throughout the whole curriculum of the course.

We at IEMLabs provide both online (through platforms like "Google Hangout Meet", "Go to Meeting", "Zoom", etc.) and offline mode of classes. The most advantageous part for a student to get trained by IEMLabs is the "One Year Lab Access ie every student from the date of admission will have access to our "Online Virtual Lab for practicing and getting all notes, pre-recorded videos, and tools according to their courses for one year absolutely free of cost.
